Call for Research Papers

Aims and Scope:

Vidyodaya Journal of Science annually publishes research and scholarly articles on pure and applied science. Editors welcome contributions from all academic and scientific circles. The principal object of this peer reviewed journal is to provide a medium for the dissemination of the results of research conducted mainly by the academic staff scientists and eminent scholars outside the university to publish research articles and papers, which are deemed to be significant contributions to Science. The journal is circulated to a large number of libraries of universities, research institutes and learned societies throughout the world.

We welcome the submission of research paper articles for the next issue of the Vidyodaya Journal of Science (2015 issue) which will be published in 2016.
